NAVY DESERTIONS DECREASING. Too many rules and regulations are Song, apt to cause human beings to rebel Reading, and since the modification in Navy Reading, regulations and the creation of better educational facilities, fewer desertions Beading, occur in the Navy. A statement by Music, Secretary of the Navy Daniels tends to show that desertions from the service continues to diminish and that an increasing number of recruits are applying for calistment every day. Mr. Daniels attributes this to modifications in the regulations dealing with deserters and the facilities provided for education in the Navy. The statement shows that in December only three men deserted from the Asiatic fleet, seventyfour from the Atlantic fleet, and that desertions from the Pacific coast in January numbered only thirteen. The average number of monthly desertions in the fiscal year ended June, 1913, was 210, and during the past fiscal year 104. PREFERS THE POLITICAL

MORGUE. Many active politicians have tired of the game before, so A. Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania, is no exception to the rule since he has been appointed and accepted the position of Judge on the United States Court of Claims, In his new role he is entitled to wear a robe like that of a clergyman, eschew politics, and live a peaceful, judicial life. Palmer was one of the "original Wilson men," of the "sure enough kind." In appreciation of his activities President Wilson offered him the post of Secretary of War, but while Palmer was eager for political hopors, he could not accept, explaining that he was born a Quaker, and was therefore a man of peace. So Palmer was shoved into the Senatorial race in Pennsylvania, and buried out of sight by the famous Boies Ponrose, who was "coming back's at the time. THE CARE OF CHICKS.

Eric N. Boland, Instructor in Animal Industry (Poultry).

The care, feed, and management given to chicks is of extreme importance as it determines whether or not they will prove productive when they be-

The first four weeks of the chick's life are the most critical. Under the usual conditions, if a chick is healthy and alert when four weeks of age it will make a good mature bird. The system of brooding which is to be followed will vary in different localities and with the different number of chickens to be raised. Under any system the brooder should be kept clean. Before the chicks are placed in the brooder it should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected and the floor covered with fine sand over which has been placed some fine out alfalfa or clover. The temperature of the brooder should be started from 98 to 100 degrees F. This should be maintained during the first week, the second week the temperature may be lowered to from 94 to 95, the third week to 90, and fourth week 85. While it is somewhat difficult to set down the exact temperature, the breeder should keep in mind the fact that the chicks should not be allowed to crowd or huddle together nor should they be driven away from the stove on account of excessive heat. There are some principles of feeding which should be kept in mind. United States. And yet there are peaple who claim that it is useless to 'swat the fly." cimply from the general belief that there are so many of them that it is a waste of energy. But the proof of the benefits to a community are shown very well at the National Capital. For several years Washington has been "swatting" the fly and correcting various unsanitary conditions, during which time the general health of the city has constantly improved. Last year there were 100 less cases of typhoid fever than in any previous seacor, while other diseases were less in evidence.

"The time has just about arrived for the biggest results to be achieved from this long warfare on the fly and flith," says an authority on health matters. "We did not expect to abolish the fly in a season or make the capital a spotless city in so short a time. The 'swatting' habit and the 'clean-up' habit had to be acquired, but all Washingtonians now appear to be impressed with the importance of the work, and I look for the city to enter this summer upon the greatest era of healthfulness it has ever known."

Dr. Murray has pointed out that there were fewer flies in evidence a the close of last season than was the case in any previous year, and the citizens have already commenced to destroy the places that might serve as breeding places for the insects in order that the reduced number of winter survivors will be handicapped in bringing on this season's fly population.

DRESSES FOR HIGH SCHOOL

GRADUATES. For years Paris has been setting the pace in styles, but of late there has been a tendency among Americans, to can't remember all he said-'twas fix their own styles in wearing apparel of all kinds. Simpler and less expensive dressing for high school graduates has been advocated for several years, and now Washington bids fair to fix the fashion for sweet girl graduates. The movement for greater simplicity in graduation gowns has been started by Central High School, and the other four institutions here are expected to follow the example. "Simpler dressing at graduations will be accomplished only through education," said E. L. Thurston, superintendent of the public schools. "It is a thing to be desired, and more persons are constantly coming to a realization of the fact. Publie sentiment is being formed in favor tain that this will result in less expensive dressing at the spring graduation exercises.''

The girl graduates at McKinley Manual Training School will continue their established custom of designing and making their own commencement costumes. These gowns are not uniform, nor are they simply to an extreme, but the prevailing tendency is toward simplicity. This tendency is becoming no. nowspaper called "Graham's Daily lie art.

SYNOPSIS.

Frank O'Connell, young Irish patriot, is shot and wounded by British soldiers while making a home rule speech. He is sided by Angela Kingsnorth, an English society girl, who defends him.

Angela takes O'Connell to her brother's bome and helps to nurse him. He recovers, and he and the girl become fast friends. O'Connell when well is sent to jail for disturbing the peace. He finally writes Angela that he has finished his sentence. O'Connell and Angela wed. She has aspoused the Irish cause. Her brother, a

First French Car at an American Price

FACTORY BEHIND THE CAR

Three years ago I conceived the idea of the Briscoe car, It was to build, for less than a thousand dollars, a really high grade light car-of as fine material, with as great care in workmanship, of as assured reliability, and of as highly-finished artistic appearance as any of the best and highest-priced cars; a car built right, whose artistic lines would take it out of the ordinary, cheap, low-value class, and thus singularly appeal to the discriminating buyer.

So I called several engineers together-men who had already designed American cars which were famous for the value they gave. I told them I must have a car that embodied these ideals—and more. They were to take their own time. Thoroughness, not speed, was to be the watchword. And I arranged to be with them day and night until the Briscoe car was completed.

We knew the best American methods, these men and I; for we had been responsible for many successes here. So we went to Europe, where we could study the best of several foreign practices and methods.

And there, in the shops at Billancourt, near Paris, we finally

This is the story of the Briscoe car.

Not Experiment that Produced the Briscoe Car

It was not experimenting in this case—the slapping together of a varied collection of material to catch a season's market. It was rather experience that built the Briscoe car-a finished product of several years' careful investigation and study; the concentrated effort of prominent engineers from the three most famous nutomobile producing countries of the world-tried and proved under every conceivable practical test both abroad and at home. I will stake my reputation of fifteen years of successful automobile building upon the performance of this Briscoe car.
